DEMOCRATIC.—The address delivered by John H. B. Latrobe, of Baltimore, at the laying of the corner stone of the new Masonic Temple in that city, on the 20th ultimo, gave a condensed history of Freemasonry. We quote a few passages:

At the commencement of the eighteenth century Freemasonry had ceased to be a healthful and vigorous society, whose occupation consisted in building edifices. The ages were no longer dark. Learning, emerging as the morning sun above the hill-tops, from the gloom in which it had been hidden, was gradually illuminating Europe. The printing press was revolutionizing the world. America had been discovered. Enterprise was on foot everywhere, and marching with a giant's strength. Labor, rattling impatiently the chains with which guilds and corporations bound it, was struggling into freedom. Research, careless about the mysteries of rites, was busying itself about the mysteries of art, and year by year unveiling them. Other men became competent as architects and builders, and the Masons, ceasing to be a necessity as craftsmen, found themselves in exclusive possession of their peculiar ceremonies only. Year after year the society became feebler. William III. had been its royal patron; Sir Christopher Wren its last Grand Master in England, and at length, somewhere about the year A. D. 1717, four lodges were all that remained of the once powerful organization that had built York and Westminster, and Ely and Canterbury, and Lincoln and Durham, and to which the monarch had been indebted for his, and the baron for his hold. This was the lowest ebb in the fortunes of Freemasonry. The tide then turned. The practical feature of the order was abandoned altogether. It became speculative in its character; and in a little while we find the Grand Lodge of London permanently established, and Freemasonry once more attracting to its lodges rank and wealth and influence. But the Grand Lodge of London was not without its troubles. The Masons of York, rich in muniments, with a charter dating back nine hundred years, disputed the authority of the new creation; and it was not until the beginning of the present century that harmony was obtained, and the authority of the Grand Lodge of England recognized by all parties.

Freemasonry was introduced into the United States in 1730, and seems to have become popular at once. Washington was the Master of a lodge, and a greater part of the officers of the army of the Revolution were members of the fraternity. The corner stone of the hall we are about to leave was laid by a Governor of the State, then Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, and the building was inaugurated by the late General Winder, who succeeded him in the office. There is now a Grand Lodge in every State in the Union; and the noble edifices which are everywhere being built for the accommodation of the Order, while they do credit to the taste, manifest at the same time the wealth and prosperity of those to whom now belongs the duty of transmitting, in all their purity, to a distant future, the principles of Freemasonry.

You have, probably, seen in the papers of the day that the corner stone of the old Masonic Hall, which we are about to abandon, has recently been unearthed. It was laid in 1814, more than half a century ago; and you must have been struck by the fact that notwithstanding the care taken to transmit to posterity the history of the building, and some brief chronicle of the times, two coins of gold, a half-eagle of 1796, and an eagle of 1811, with the inscription on the marble, were alone found to be unimpaired. The silver was blackened and defaced; the figures on the copper had disappeared; and some remains of decayed binding were all that testified to the decayed volumes that had been placed within the stone. Damp and mould and time, that edax rerum, in the short space of fifty years, had defeated the purpose of the builders to hand down to future ages some memorial of their transactions. But the eagle and half-eagle were as bright as when the coins first issued from the mint. It would have been the same had the gold come from the foundations of an Indian shrine or a temple in the Forum. It will be the same when as many years shall have rolled over the new resting place to which, to-day it is consigned, as have accumulated since the remote past.

COST OF THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.—The old building burnt by the British on the capture of Washington, in 1814, cost $738,071. The cost of the new Capitol to 1839, including improvements of grounds, was $1,808,418. Expended between 1839 and 1855, in alterations and improvements, $93,959; making a total cost of the Capitol and grounds, $2,690,488. The additions and improvements since made to the building, and still in progress, will cost at least $5,000,000 more.

A STORY FOR TWO NATIONS.—An eminent story teller was very fond of relating the following touching anecdote: An Englishman and a Frenchman fought a duel in a darkened room. The Englishman, unwilling to take his antagonist's life, generously fired up the chimney and brought down the Frenchman. "When I tell this story in France," pleasantly adds the narrator, "I make the Englishman go up the chimney."

THE "local" of a Lynchburg paper says he saw a woman the other day from the country, underneath a new spoon-bowl hat, decked with a rooster feather, inside of a "tilting skeert," before a huge waterfall, having in her mouth a corn-cob pipe, and in her arms a baby about two months old. She looked like she felt she was in Mahomet's seventh heaven, and was just ready to exclaim, "cut the straps and let me go to glory."

THE Catholic Church in the United States is said to have 3,884 churches and chapels, 74 theological seminaries and 1,404 academies and schools, containing 50,000 pupils. The Catholic population of the United States is estimated from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000.

Salt Lake City, November 5, 1866.

The Right to Vote and Hold Office in Utah.

In another column will be found a communication from an intelligent correspondent on the question of "Who are Voters in Utah?" Our correspondent, who seems pretty well versed in that most intricate complication, yclept the "Laws of Utah," has evidently overlooked one enactment, bearing very materially on the query propounded by him. Section 5 of the Organic Act is correctly stated, as also the 16th section of the Act of 1853—the latter allowing all white male citizens of the United States, of eighteen years of age, to vote and hold office. But by an Act approved January 21, 1859, entitled "An Act prescribing certain qualifications necessary to enable a person to be eligible to hold office, vote, or serve as Juror, (page 68 "Laws of Utah,") the 16th section of the Act of 1853 was practically modified and repealed, by reason of its inconsistency, as well as by the general repealing clause at the end of the Act.

Section 3 of the Act of 1859 referred to, reads as follows:

"No person shall be elected or appointed to any Territorial, District, county or precinct office, unless he shall have been a constant resident therein during at least one year next preceding such election or appointment; neither shall any person be entitled to hold any office of trust or profit in the Territory, or vote at any election, unless he is a free, white male citizen of the United States, over twenty-one years of age, and has been a constant resident in the Territory during the six months next preceding said election or appointment."

Section 6 of the same Act further restricts the right to vote or hold office, by prescribing that "No person shall be deemed a resident within the meaning of this Act, unless he is a tax payer in this Territory."

It appears, then, that our correspondent is a little too rapid in arriving at the conclusion that here in Utah we have "in a quiet way attained that condition of impartial suffrage which is so much desired and yet so difficult to attain at Washington."

Section 5 of the Organic Act prescribes the qualifications of voters at the first election, and leaves the whole matter afterwards to the discretion of the Legislature, subject to the restrictions of the proviso mentioned by our correspondent.

The section of the Act [illegible] above, seems to be a legitimate exercise of that discretion, and to cover the question, and as it has never been repealed, is still in full force and effect. The qualification of a voter, as thus laid down by the Legislature, is then, that he be "a free, white male citizen of the United States, over twenty-one years of age, a constant resident of the Territory for six months, and a tax payer." The repeal of the 16th section of the law of 1853, by the Act of 1862, has no effect on the law of 1859, and was entirely unnecessary, as the latter in itself and in terms repealed the former.

We may remark that we are pleased to receive and print the communication of our correspondent, and of all others who are disposed to discuss questions of practical interest to the people of Utah. The policy of restricting the right of suffrage in Utah to actual tax payers is one which has heretofore attracted the attention of intelligent citizens of the Territory. While we admit that, under the Organic Act, the Legislature may have the right to incorporate that restriction, its policy has been condemned by many as working a hardship. It places the power in the Assessors and Collectors of taxes to say who shall and who shall not vote and hold office. It it be desirable that a certain person or class of persons shall not be allowed to vote or hold office, all that is necessary for these officers to do, is to pass him or them by in the assessment and collection of taxes. We do not know that this has been done, but it should not be rendered possible by law.

Again, it is a good many years since the doctrine of property qualification was exploded, although it still exists in some of the States. The tendency of modern civilization seems to be in favor of the extension rather than the restriction of free suffrage. The Act of 1859 is neither more nor less than a property qualification, and, in our opinion, the sixth Section should be repealed, if not by the Legislature, then by Congress.

THE BIGGEST YET.—We hear from the best authority, says the Sacramento Bee, that at Hungry Hollow, three miles from Latrobe, El Dorado county, a ledge of decomposed quartz was struck recently by some placer miners, and they have been taking out from $3,000 to $10,000 a day. This is truly a "big thing." What is very singular is that some gentlemen of this city and Folsom sank a shaft within ten feet of the place, but did not find the lead, and abandoned it not long ago. Such is luck, and such is life.

HOW FAR A RAILROAD CONDUCTOR TRAVELS. A veteran conductor was recently made Superintendent of a western railroad, who had seen twenty-four years of constant service. During this long period he scarcely missed a day, and as his daily journeys were 220 miles for the chief part of the time, he calculates that he has traveled 1,300,000 miles in the aggregate, which amounts to about fifty-two journeys around the earth, or two and a half trips to the moon and back. This conductor is quite a travelled man.

KATE CROW.—Kate Bateman has married a Mr. George Crow, a son of Mr. Eyre Crow, the historian and journalist; also a brother of Mr. Joseph Crow, formerly of the Illustrated London News, now English Consul at Leipzig, and also of Eyre Crow, Jr., the painter.

F. H. Hoor has relinquished his connection with the Atchison Free Press, on account of ill health, and is succeeded by L. R. Elliot. Mr. Elliot is said to be a good writer, as well as practical printer.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE "DAILY UNION VEDETTE."]

New York, January 23.

The appropriations of $15,000 for Point Reyes, $65,000 for Point Arenas, and $75,000 for Cape Blanco have been stricken out.

[illegible] made to have them restored.

[illegible] Committee of the General Land Office, [illegible] shortly issue instructions to Registers, Receivers and Surveyors-General relative to receiving claims under the act of July last, that should adverse claimants of any mine appear before the approval of the surveys, all further proceedings will be stayed until final settlement. It is understood there is nothing obligatory on the claimants to proceed under the statutes, and when they fail to do so, there being no adverse interest, they hold the same relation to the premises they did before the passage of the Act, with additional guarantees that they possess the right of occupancy under the [illegible].

Chicago, January 23.

The Kansas Legislature have elected Pomeroy and Ross for Senators, the latter by 68, to 40 for Carney.

The Wisconsin Legislature have elected Howe for Senator, and have demanded Doolittle's return.

The President has approved the bill convening the 40th Congress on the 4th of March.

New York, January 23.

The impeachment of the President and the continued contraction of currency tend to depress business.

House—Mills, from Judiciary Committee, reported Shellabarger's bill to declare and protect all privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States in the several States.

The Judiciary Committee obtained leave to report, at any time, a bill establishing the eight hour labor system.

Boutwell reported a bill to provide for filling the Presidential office in case of trouble.

The House bill, prescribing the test oath for lawyers, was referred to the Judiciary Committee. Bill passed.

Mr. Sherman spoke on the tariff bill.

Fessenden said it would not do to leave the formation of the tariff to manufacturers, as they have too much interest in it.

Mr. Sprague's pending amendment, raising the duty on brown linen, duck canvas, padding, etc., to four cents per square yard, was referred. Adjourned.

New York, January 23.

In dry goods there is little business doing; no change in prices.

New York, January 23.

Eastern lines still down; no cable news to-night.

Washington, January 23.

A prominent Republican member of the House, recently writing to a friend, says: Touching the impeachment, my opinion is, and has been, it will amount to nothing. The Judiciary Committee have been taking no bearing on the case. Not a single witness has been examined.

The Consul, in a letter to the State Department, dated Hague, January 1st, says: In the latter part of November, according to the custom of the Netherlands, the cattle were housed for the winter. Since the rinderpest increased, notwithstanding the efforts of the Government to arrest its progress, from the 1st to the 16th of December, the number of animals attacked were 3,700. From the 15th the epidemic diminished; the number being 6,000. From the time it made its appearance in the country to the 15th of December 15,000 animals died; of the deceased 2,100 were killed previous to the outbreak of the epidemic. The beef cattle are mainly exported to England; this exportation has since ceased. The Government has confined its attention to the infested districts, but with no success.

Chicago, January 23.

The band of Arrapahoe Indians encamped between Forts Lyon and Dodge, on the Smoky Hill route, are assuming a hostile attitude. They have already driven off several station keepers.

The mail coach from Denver was robbed on the 15th near Living Spring by a party of highwaymen, deserters from Fort Morgan, or Junction Station, who are completely equipped for life on the road.

Nashville, January 23.

In the lower branch of the Legislature, to-day, a bill passed on the first reading, to organize a full loyal militia, and for a cavalry regiment in each Congressional District, composed of white and colored men, subject to the order of the Governor. Another bill was passed striking the word "white" from the franchise law. Both will become a law.

Washington, January 23.

The National Democratic Association adopted a resolution recommending a National Democratic Convention at New York on the 21st of May.

New York, January 24.

The Times' special says there is good reasons for saying that the plan for adjusting existing difficulties in the way of reconstruction, is receiving the serious consideration of the Administration. It was discussed in the Cabinet, with the adoption of suffrage and amnesty forms of basis. It differs from Greeley's scheme of providing separate State action, and proposing qualified suffrage and leave unrepentant rebels subject to the penalties of treason. As an incentive to this reform, the President intimates his readiness to issue a proclamation of amnesty to all the South.

The Carolinas are willing to amend their Constitutions to the extent Massachusetts has done.

New York, January 24.

The World's special says the Senate Judiciary Committee have agreed to report a Constitutional amendment limiting the Presidential office to one term.

Major General Thomas has arrived at Washington, and Sheridan is expected soon.

The chance for the passage of the bankrupt bill is now considered hopeless.

The Pacific Railroad Committee will not consider, this session, Goodwin's scheme for a railroad through Texas and Arizona to the Gulf of Mexico.

The Treasury Department has awarded contracts for 75,000 gallons of oil for light houses. Prices, $1 27 for the Atlantic coast; $1 97 for the Pacific coast.

The President has signed a bill providing that the nett proceeds of internal revenue from the Territories of Nebraska, Washington, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Arizona and Dakota, during the next three years be appropriated for erecting, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, penitentiary buildings in said Territories.

New York, January 24.

The only Republicans voting against Boutwell's test oath, were Hall, Latham, Stillwell, McRuer.

The Commissioner of the Land Office transmitted to the Register at San Francisco forty-three patents for lots in Petaluma.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has decided to purchase goods and articles required by the Indians on the Pacific coast at San Francisco.

Four projects for the Southern Pacific Railroad are being considered. One from Springfield, Missouri, via Albuquerque. One from Memphis, via El Passo. One from Freeport, on Red river, via Marshall, Texas. One from some point on the Gulf to Santiago. The Arizona road contemplates receiving enormous grants of land and bonds.

Wilson's instructions to Registers, [illegible] Surveyor General, to acquaint themselves with the local mining customs and usages of their respective districts, and to preserve a record of individual claims, which, together with those incorporated, may be entered in any district land office, with a description of the vein or lode, or part thereof. Notice of intention to apply for a patent must be published in the nearest newspaper. After the survey is executed, the certificate must be filed and the premises paid for at the rate of five dollars per acre, patents may then issue, but not for more than one vein or lode. The rectangular method of surveys shall be maintained, or conforming with the township line, otherwise varied, according to local circumstances, by the district deputies under contracts as in surveys of public or private lands, but paid for at two dollars per day. The extent of location, from the passage of this Act, shall not exceed two hundred feet along a vein for each locator, with additional claim for discovery, with a reasonable quantity of surface for convenient working, fixed by local rules, not exceeding three thousand feet for one claim or association.

Summary of News.

From our California exchanges we gather the following:

The Sacramento Union says that J. P. Hoge, in the Avery-Bigler case in the United States District Court, made a very lengthy argument in support of the right of the President to remove and appoint, asserting that it had been conceded since the foundation of the Government; and that even if not expressly warranted by statute, it had become as thoroughly established by precedent as to have become law; and the recognition of the principle claimed by the defendant would bring the Government of the United States to an end in a year. Judge Baldwin, at the request of the District Attorney, agreed to render the decision within five days.

Consul Godoy has received letters from President Juarez, informing him that the seat of Government was transferred, on the 10th of December, from Chihuahua to Durango, but would probably remain there only a short time, and then go to Zacatecas, en route for the city of Mexico.

A young man named David Crump, aged 22 years, who was stopping with Jas. Moore, on the Burbank Ranch, two miles below Freeport, went out into Beach's Lake on Monday, the 7th inst., to hunt ducks, in a small duck-boat, and being inexperienced in managing such boats, was capsized (the lake being very rough on that day,) and drowned or perished by exposure in the cold water.

It is understood that Banning's mail stage line is to be withdrawn immediately from the Fort Yuma route and placed on the La Paz route, which will better accommodate three-fourths of the population and trade of Arizona.

The rumors of the arrival of the America with cholera on board and having lost nearly three hundred passengers, most industriously circulated on the streets all day, were wholly false, and evidently started merely to create a painful sensation.

Efforts are being made to obtain the permission of the military authorities for the use of the barracks at Camp Reynolds, on the western side of Angel Island, for temporary quarantine purposes. Objection has been made, however, that the quarters are required for military purposes, and that if they were once granted there is no knowing how soon they would be returned to the Government.

The removal of Dr. McNulty and the appointment of Dr. Rowell in his place as Health Officer, by the Board of Supervisors last night, causes considerable feeling, as he is a veteran of the Union service, and his clerk a soldier of the Army of the Potomac, crippled in the war.

A San Francisco dispatch to the Sacramento Bee says:

The indictments for libel against M. Fennel, William Casey, S. P. McCarthy, J. H. Josselyn and C. B. McDonald, of the American Flag, were dismissed to-day, and the case of D. O. McCarthy set at the foot of the calendar.

On Sunday morning, January 13th, for the first time this season, Mt. Diablo appeared with a garment of snow.

A nugget was picked up lately on Union Hill, at Grass Valley, which contained about twenty-one ounces of gold, to which was attached just enough of rock to hold it together.

Henry Piper, employed in the store of Dibblee & Hyde, on Front street, fell through a hatchway yesterday while fencing with a companion, and received very serious injuries on the head and internally. He fell about twenty feet.

The annual election of the Exempt Firemen's Company took place last night. John Short was elected President; M. E. Fitzgibbon and Jerry Whalen, Vice Presidents; William Martin, Secretary; Henry R. Reed, Treasurer.

APPOINTMENTS AND REMOVALS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.—The Washington correspondent of the Alta gives the following items:

W. J. Walker, United States Internal Revenue Agent for California, has been dismissed. He is said to stand in very bad odor with the Department. Thomas H. Hinchman, resident of San Francisco, has been appointed in his stead. W. W. Morrow has been appointed United States Revenue Inspector of San Francisco. Charles H. Hopkins has been appointed United States Revenue Inspector in place of Dr. Randall, removed. Elijah Cole, Cigar Inspector, in place of Henry Baker, removed. J. C. Curtis, United States Tobacco Inspector, in place of James L. Kennedy, whose time had expired. L. D. Gavett, United States Inspector of Distilleries. James N. Driscoll, United States Inspector of Distilleries. —— Getchell, United States Revenue Agent, has also been removed. At the present time there is some talk of the removal of L. C. Gunn, United States Assessor. It is only a question of his success, and who will be confirmed if appointed. Lucien Curtis, now United States Revenue Inspector, San Francisco, can get the appointment if he will accept the position. Frank Soule, United States Collector, stands well with the Departments, and his reputation for integrity and honesty places him in such a position that no effort is being made by aspirats for public favor to oust him. Cornelius Stagg, late Deputy Collector of San Francisco, is here for the purpose of answering to any and all charges against him by W. J. Walker, late Revenue Agent, to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Secretary of the Treasury, and he has been fully vindicated and complimented by them for his services in the United States Revenue Department in California.

TO CURE LISPING.—A exchange states that a rapid and emphatic recital of the following narrative will generally cure lisping. It is certainly worth a trial: "Hobbs meets Snobbs, and Nobbs; Hobbs bobs to Snobbs and Nobbs; Hobbs nobs with Snobbs and robs Nobbs' fobs. 'This is,' says Nobbs, 'the worst of Hobbs' jobs,' and Snobbs sobs."

WRITING from Boston, a New York country editor says: "Boston is chiefly distinguished for its Yankee enterprise, magnificent harbor, crooked streets, hypocritical piety, spacious Common, big ocean, dilapidated State House, and the Atlantic Monthly."

Who are Voters in Utah?

EDITOR VEDETTE:—In view of the approaching election for Delegate to the Fortieth Congress, this question is often asked, and much may depend upon the view taken of it. On the 9th day of September, 1850, the Act organizing the Territory was approved. The Fifth Section thereof reads thus:

"And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant, above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this Act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory. But the qualifications of the voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the Legislative Assembly; Provided, That the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States, including those recognized as citizens by the treaty with the Republic of Mexico, concluded February second, 1848."

On the third day of January, 1853, an Act of the Legislative Assembly of Utah "Regulating Elections" was approved. The Sixteenth Section of that Act reads thus:

"SEC. 16. All free white male citizens of the United States, over the age of eighteen years, residents of the Territory, are voters, and eligible to hold any office within this Territory."

By an Act of the Legislative Assembly, approved January 16th, 1862, this section was repealed. And the Act Regulating Elections, published in the compiled laws of 1866, does not contain said Sixteenth Section. Whether its provisions were, or were not, judicious is not now material. The repeal thereof has placed it beyond consideration. We cannot say what laws relating to the qualification of voters may have been passed at the late session of the Legislative Assembly; none, we think. If not, then the only provision of law on the subject is that contained in the Fifth Section of the Organic Act. The first and substantive part of that section relates to the first election to be held in the Territory. For that election the right of suffrage was extended to inhabitants residing in the Territory at the time that Act was passed. The authority given to the Legislature to fix the qualifications of voters and of holding office, was exercised in 1853; and in 1862 the law of 1853 was repealed, and no provision remains regarding voters or those holding office, except what is contained in the proviso to the Fifth Section, above referred to. That restricts the right of voting and holding office in Utah to citizens of the United States and those recognized as citizens by the treaty with the Republic of Mexico. It will be observed that the proviso contains no restriction of age, color, condition, sex, or employment, upon the citizen, and thus, in a quiet way, we have attained in Utah that condition of impartial suffrage which is so much desired and yet so difficult to attain at Washington. Whether this condition is attributable to a want of foresight in those who framed the Organic Act or to the higher state of civilization developed in Utah, need not be determined until after the election of the next Delegate.

A Fortress Monroe letter, of December 14th, has the following: "Mr. Davis, as I have been told, expresses gratification at the arrest of Surratt. He is gratified, because now he sees his way clearer than ever to the establishment of his own innocence in connection with the death of Mr. Lincoln. Even if the captured fugitive prefers the accusation, as it is claimed he will, he avers that it will be a very easy and simple matter to disprove them, and his anxiety in regard to the result has this depth and compass and no more—the desire of an early opportunity to meet and refute the charges. Whatever of criminality may attach to him as the head and front of the late rebellion, whatever of treason there may have been to his country in his official acts as the chosen chief of the Confederacy, he is willing an impartial jury shall determine, and if he is proven a traitor and meriting a traitor's doom, he is willing to pay the penalty of his death; for then the knowledge of the motives prompting to his course and mens sibi conscia recti will sustain him. The penalty of defeat in the great struggle of a great people for a great principle he would cheerfully pay, and though, judged by the standard of sober discretion, his course may have been premature and ill-advised, and though, tried by the technical tests of law, he may be adjudged guilty of treason, there would yet be something of glory in such a fate; but every feeling of his nature revolts at assassination, and particularly of such a man as Mr. Lincoln, who, although his opponent in a contest of arms, he respected for his integrity, high magnanimity of character, and sincere and unyielding devotion to what he considered right. All this, as relates to the capture of Surratt and the interest and destiny of Mr. Davis as involved in the case, and particularly the expressed gratification of the latter at the arrest, does not much favor the theory of Mr. Davis' implication in the murder of Mr. Lincoln. Disregarding his own assertions, his friends feel confident that if Surratt does not attempt to shoulder the assassination plot on him, a rigid investigation will show the charge as groundless as that attempted by the alleged perjurer Conover and his tools before the Special Investigation Committee of the last Congress.

A LARGE FORK FOR A BIG KNIFE.—The German journals relate the following anecdote: Saxhausen is one of the suburbs of Frankfort, and is partly occupied by gardeners, who are considered, rightly or wrongly, to be a clownish lot. When the Prussian troops entered the city, every house was obliged to billet one or two soldiers. The inhabitants of Saxhausen acquitted themselves of this duty with a very bad grace, and one of them showed such manifest signs of ill will toward his guest that the latter, when he sat down to dinner, placed his sword on the table by his side, with a very significant gesture. The countryman said nothing, but left the room and returned in a moment with an enormous pitchfork, which he laid down beside the sword. The soldier flushed up with anger, but the other quietly observed: "I thought that for so big a knife a big fork was required. If you like we can make use of our own implement." This was all the satisfaction the son of Mars could obtain, so he thought fit to put his sword away in a corner of the kitchen, while the other withdrew his pitchfork.

THE WAY THE MONEY GOES.—A cable dispatch in cipher was recently sent by Secretary Seward to Minister Bigelow, at Paris, which contained three thousand seven hundred and twenty-two words, and on which a tariff of nineteen thousand five hundred and forty dollars and fifty cents in gold was paid. The message was written entirely in figures, of which there were four thousand two hundred and nine. The time consumed in transmission from Washington to New York was, including "repeating back," six hours, each figure having to be written in full and duplicated. Time for counting and checking, about four hours, each letter being counted twice to insure correctness. To save time, a copy was taken by an extra operator at the sending instrument, from which the count was made. It was sent by "C." and copied by "J." "D. L." and received by "Q." "N. T." This item may be of interest to telegraphers generally, and it undoubtedly is to the lucky holders of cable stock.

Local and Miscellaneous.

ADVERTISERS.—The VEDETTE is the largest newspaper of Utah. Its extensive circulation in mining camp and city of Montana and Idaho, (in it gives the telegraphic dispatches a whole head of the Pacific papers,) makes it the most prous medium for advertising in these four Territories.

PATIENCE.—Patience we know is a virtue, somebody said that sometimes it ceases so, and we desire to call the attention of Chicago operators of the telegraph to the fact notwithstanding the superior intelligence of our Salt Lake operators, the dispatches come through so mystified as to require more genius than an editor, local, or proofreader is supposed to possess, to decipher. Be thus less if necessary, but gentlemen, refer to us a little more intelligible.

MESSAGES.—John, with a Dutch appendage has escaped our memory, was yesterday forced to serve the public for one hundred cents. For what? Why he stole hogs, and his only excuse was he wanted to make sausages. Now John did not follow the example of other representative of the Teutonic race and stole the "brooms ready made," which led him to sell the article cheaper than he who stole the material and then manufactured the article himself.

THE CHALLENGE BALL.—The ball given by the proprietors of the Challenge Restaurant, though not very numerously attended, was a very pleasant affair. The attendance was just sufficient to make it comfortable to all. The supper—well, we will not attempt to describe it but say, that as caterers, Messrs. Welton & Taylor have no superiors. It certainly was one of the most quiet and pleasant re-unions of the season.

PERSONAL.—Major L. R. Bradley, from Ogden, California, and Captain Fisk, of the Montana Herald, both en route for the East, favored us a visit yesterday. We wish them both a pleasant a journey as the present cold weather and bad roads will permit.

CHANGE.—The Colorado Register says a change has been made in the proprietorship of the Connor House. Mr. Hensely retires and Mr. Clark, late of the Union Army of Virginia, succeeds him.

MR. FORDONSKY has opened his Hair Dressing Saloon one door East of Godbe's Drug Store, on First South street, and begs his friends for patronage. 2t

SHOCKING TRAGEDY.—The Hartford Times of the 6th inst. has the following particulars of the death of Capt. Robert G. Welles:

"We were shocked to hear of the suicide of Captain Robert G. Welles, late of the regular army, and eldest surviving son of Hon. T. Welles, of Glastenbury, and nephew of Secretary Welles. The rash act was committed a few minutes before 6 o'clock last evening, in his father's library. Mr. Welles sat reading his evening newspaper, when Robert, who had been conversing with him, exhibited a pistol. His father remonstrated against his playing such a weapon, and asked his son to give it to him. The latter declined, though in no unfriendly spirit. Suddenly approaching his father, he flung his left arm around his neck and kissed him, when, with the sinister exclamation, "Farewell, father!" he sank back into a chair, put the pistol to his head, and fired—all so quickly that his father, though springing up to arrest him, was unable to prevent it. The ball passed through Captain W.'s head, immediately back of the left temple, coming out just above the left ear, and, striking a book in the library, fell stunned upon the floor. Captain W. continued to breathe for an hour and a-quarter after the act, but was at no time conscious.

"In this shocking occurrence Mr. Welles' family are plunged into the deepest affliction and grief.

A POINT IN LAW.—The other day as we were perambulating the streets, and our attention having been attracted by the crowd in front of the office of 'Squire ——, we went in to ascertain what was on the tapis. The following is the dialogue between the several parties in the case, and the queries of the Justice on the momentous occasion. All interested in the matter of the dorg were of the Teutonic persuasion; of the 'Squire's antecedents we "has nuthin' to say." Our readers can better imagine than we can explain the nature of the action brought by the plaintiff, but we give a synopsis of the affair as near as we can from memory:

His Honor to the defendant—"Mr. Maunchon, you are accused by the plaintiff of wilfully and maliciously killing his dog. Now, what have you to say? Are you guilty, or not guilty?"

Mr. Maunchon—"Vell, dish ish drue, I shot tog; but ash he has made so much fush about it he ish got to prove it."

The Court to the plaintiff—"Well, Mr. Dorberger, how much was your dog worth?"

Mr. Dorberger—"Dish ish drue, te tog ish not worth one tam cent; but ash he kilt him he musht pay te full value."

The Squire not being able at the moment to decide on so abstract a question, postponed the case until the 30th day of February next.

FOUR MORGAN DESERTER.—The coach driver last night brought a report that the deserter from Fort Morgan had robbed two coaches, one below the junction and the other at Mule Creek. That we might learn the truth of the matter, inquiry was made of the operator at the junction, who in answer says that they did stop one coach, but that, so far as he can learn, it was not robbed. These deserters have, however, robbed, or in the parlance of the country, cleaned out two ranches. The people of Denver are greatly alarmed, as we assume they have reason to be, and Mayor Wano and Sheriff Sopris, on Monday afternoon or evening, issued a handbill ordering all good citizens to assemble forthwith at the Court House, to concert measures for the common defence." Thirty-seven desperate and unfederated men are capable of doing much damage and of committing immense robberies. If any of the gang are caught they may not be able to secure a jury trial. It will be well for the people of the Territory to be on the lookout for them, as they may determine to arm themselves to avoid detection and suspicion.

NOT COMPLIMENTARY.—A Democratic contemporary congratulates itself that the Supreme Court in a late decision has "rescued the Democratic party from defeat." That is by no means a compliment to the Court, confirming that the principles of the Democracy remained unchanged, and that its late defeat by the Union army was the salvation of the country.

WILLIAM NEELY JOHNSON formerly of Sacramento, but latterly of Mendocino county, writes to Judge McGravey, that his physicians in New York give him no hopes of having his sight restored. He adds: "I do not wholly despair, for I cannot yield to the thought that I am doomed to grovel the remainder of my days through this world in darkness."

DROWNED.—T. H. Ivens, while attempting to shoot a duck he had shot in a slough of the San Joaquin river, was drowned lately in Merced county, Cal.
